Found this great page on the internet = “Outback Family History”

Here are some of their posts on Facebook that I thought I would share.

A reader just sent me the following photograph which is part of the collection of the British Museum in London: 'Photograph postcard (black and white); six Aboriginal men, part of a fire brigade, standing outdoors with a portable hose; five standing men are wearing fire brigade uniforms; Kookynie, Western Australia.'

Kookynie is a town located in the Goldfields–Esperance region of Western Australia.

The name of the town is believed to be an Aboriginal word that means "waterhole" or "spring".

From being a busy town with a population of around 1,500 in 1905, Kookynie has become a ghost town, with around 77 inhabitants in 2006, decreasing to 13 in 2010.

Today Kookynie has one pub and hotel to serve the tourists. For a Western Australia ghost town (and there are many) it is relatively intact. A walk around the ruins reveals that Kookynie was once a large town.

A wonderful photo of the Kurrajong Hotel at King Diorite (North of Leonora).
The inscription on the card says - Your old friend Molly Hannah now at Diorite.
What an unusual vehicle, looks like a motorised coach.

The Diorite King area is 30 kilometres north of Leonora, along the Old Agnew Road, in the few kilometres before the Sturt Meadows Station turn-off.

There was a Diorite King mine here, one of the earliest in the district from 1897. Operations took place at this mine from 1897 to 1922 said to be 1134 tonnes of ore at 73 g/t yielding 2800 ounces. For part of this time J.J. Williams was mine manager. Reserve remaining are said to be 78 629.88 tonnes of ore at 17.67 g/t yielding 1436 Kg of gold.

The name also represents the town, built 3 kilometres along the road to the south, later re-named Kurrajong. The hotel closed in 1918, and nothing remains at the site now.

Diorite King also relates to the general area, with several individually named prospector shows from the early 1900's, showing now as old shafts scattered widely either side of the Old Agnew Road.

Obituary: David Kay

It is with much sadness we announce the passing of one of our long standing members David Kay on the 8th February 2022.

David had been ill with cancer for some time and he died peacefully in a hospice. His funeral was private, at his request.

David was born in Ireland and arrived in Sydney with his family. He later moved to WA meeting his wife Yvonne along the way.

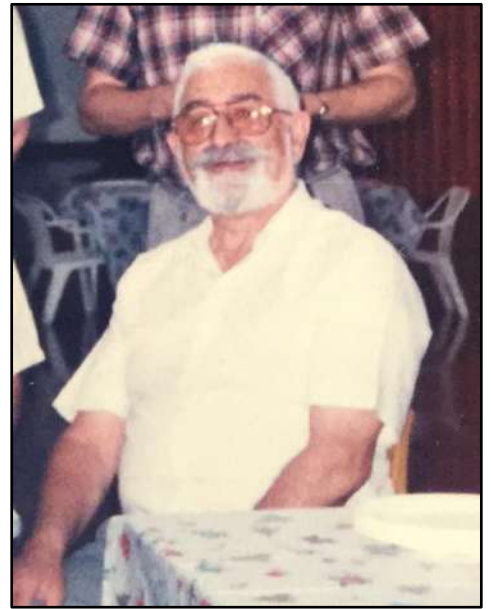

During their working life they owned a Newsagents/Bookshop in Perth until retiring.

David was interested in Ephemera & Postcards. I often met him at the Belmont Swap Meet (neither of us could spare the time to stop).

He made up some wonderful projects in albums. He was also a very generous person, giving away cards, cuttings and books to other members. David and Yvonne have very generously donated postcards and ephemera to the Society.

His presence is already missed at our meetings. We wish Yvonne our heartfelt condolences at this sad time.

.....Anne Furey

The lost art of the postcard

BY Megan Arkinstall (www.australiantraveller.com)

In a world of instant communication and oversharing, we long for the nostalgic act of sending a postcard by snail mail.

In 1895 The Sydney Morning Herald wrote, 'In these degenerate days of postcards and typewriters, letter writing has become for many almost a lost art.' Around 20 years earlier the NSW postal authorities issued the first postcard in Australia and they became the email or text message of the day.

People would use them to write short messages such as 'See you this afternoon' or to confirm meetings because, at the time, mail was delivered several times a day.

As years passed, messages became longer, despite the tiny writing space. During the two World Wars, postcards were used to send messages home; more than 900 postcards (decorative silk postcards were popular at the time) are held at the Australian War Memorial in Canberra.

When I was a child in the early '90s, postcards were the chief way to share holiday stories with loved ones. Our annual family holiday was to Burleigh Heads on the Gold Coast; we would drive nine hours from our home in NSW – my Mum and Dad, two older sisters and me – listening to Madonna's The Immaculate Collection or Roxette's Joyride on cassette the whole way.

When we arrived, my parents would take us down to the local 7-Eleven store where we'd buy a Slurpee (the blue bubblegum flavour was my favourite) and some Gold Coast-themed postcards. Nothing would beat the thrill of choosing the perfect postcard for each of my recipients; I would flick past the big-haired, hi-cut bikini girls (some sans bikini – oh my!) and choose something with dolphins or Dreamworld or the sparkly skyline of Surfers Paradise.

That night I'd sit in our holiday apartment and excitedly recount the day's events to my Nan and Pop and some lucky friends, then copy their addresses from my address book (which I'd have on me, for this very purpose). And to be sure the postcards would beat us home, I'd pop them in the post box the very next day.

Fifteen years later, email was in and postcards were out. While on a three-month trip around Europe, I only purchased one postcard – a vintage one from Paris – and never put a stamp on it. Instead of heading to the nearest convenience store or market, I was paying €2 an hour to sit in an internet cafe. Fast forward to 2016 and a string of holiday snaps posted to Instagram or Facebook is the way we now keep up-to-date with our friends' and family's whereabouts. But, despite its convenience, some spontaneous words and a filtered selfie shared with a group (mainly made up of acquaintances, let's be honest) is completely impersonal. Whereas a postcard was a conscious and thoughtful note sent to a few select and special people.

Being just a snapshot – not an entire chronicle of your holiday itinerary – the postcard created intrigue. It was a challenge trying to fit in all the exciting things we'd done into the allotted space; I would always end up curling my last sentence around the address panel because Nanna needed to know that we had a barbecue after we played tennis and the next day we were going to Wet'n'Wild.

And can anyone honestly say that scrolling through a daily newsfeed is more enjoyable than receiving a colourful hand-written postcard in your letterbox? Not likely, especially when it's sent from somewhere exotic..... such as Ripley's Believe It or Not!

Total amt. realised for Auction No. 184 was $1908.50. Tied bids marked* went to the first bid received.
Flavour of the Month was Lot No. 141.

AUCTION NOTES NO. 184

The WA lots brought some good results.

No.8 Boulder WA Published by NCV not one of their earlier editions, but not a common card.

No.14 of Northam WA is usually represented by the photographer Nixon. This one was probably taken in Fitzgerald St (Northam) possibly at the business end of town, as it used to be known the opposite end of town to Millbridge.

No.17 Bullfinch WA its most unusual to have windows covered in hessian (must be to keep out the flies) I think it's early card with notices for the referendum and reference to military notices pinned up (Federal law).

All the Royalty lots sold.

No.70 Mundaring Weir overflowing – the weir has been dry for many years now.

The lots of Aviation, Tucks WWW Series, Theatre Stars, Sudan, Italy and France didn't attract any bids.

The American Fleet card, the Submarine, Boy Scouts & the American artist D. Wig sold.

A number of the other lots such as NSW, SA, Isle Sky, Tasmania & Vict. sold.

Another unusual lot No.140 an Advert for "Boans" sold for nearly double the reserve.

Greetings Cards didn't sell, the Easter lots were especially nice quality in design and condition.

The Large Letters sold, artists Turner, Hutchings, Sceltema, H. Payne/WS Smith sold.

The Family Photos, Earth Quake scenes also sold.

Last but not least, Lot No.200 a WA Fire sold for a reasonable price.

MODERN:

There were 12 lots listed with 3 lots sold in the Auction, 6 lots were sold on the table at the Society meeting.

Regards, Anne Furey.

P.S. I made a mistake in notes for Auction 183, I said theatre Stars didn't sell, they did, my apologies

Due to having 3 blank pages as article were not receive, I have found this page from Topics 2006

The Art Nouveau set of WA.

Seeing a couple of these cards recently on ebay (both of which I fortunately had as one went for $26.85) suggests this is another set we should list and see if other members can add to what I have.

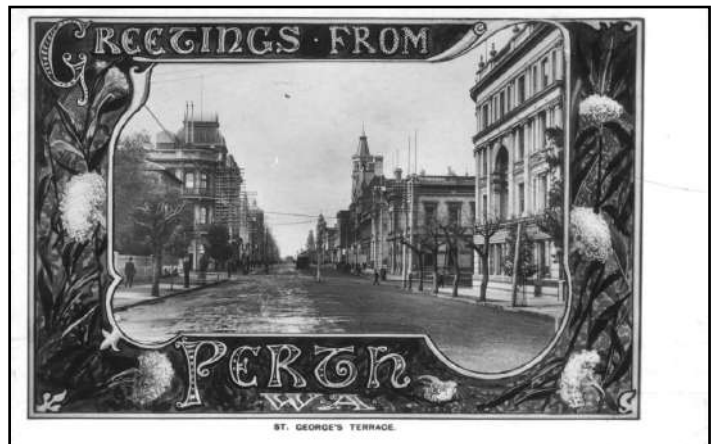

These cards are a glossy black & white with a white border which is wider on the right side. All say "Greetings from Perth" and have a central picture which can be divided up into three "shapes" in an Art Nouveau style.

- Type A. A neat rectangle with two "bobbles" at the bottom corners
" B. A neat rectangle with a small bobble at top right and a larger one at bottom right.

The titles I have which can be listed are as follows in alphabetical order with the respective type in parentheses

- Barrack Street ( C )
- City of Perth from Mt. Eliza ( B )
- Government House ( B )
- His Majesty's Theatre, Hay Street ( A )
- Leake Memorial Fountain and King's park ( B )
- Perth from Mount Eliza ( B )
- Queen Victoria Statue and City of Perth ( A )
- St. George's terrace ( C )
- Supreme Court ( A )
- Town Hall and General Post Office ( C )
- Wellington Street ( A )

With 4 'A's, 3 B's & 3 C's maybe there were 12 with a B & a C to find.

The back is standard with divider. No publisher or numbering and the stamp box is blank.

Usage seems to be rather late at 1910 – 1912 and cards seem to have been available outside WA as examples used in Adelaide and Tasmania are seen.

Now I suggest there should be 12 or even 16 in the set so it would be good if others can add to this listing.

Get the numbers right.

An American friend pointed out to me that at 3 seconds into 2 minutes past 1 o'clock on April 5th the date will read 01,02,03,04,05,06!

I replied by saying that this would only apply in USA as we'd have to wait until the 4th May for this to apply to us with our more logical sequence of day/month/year!

It was pointed out that we'd have to wait for the year 3006 for this to occur next but you could have lots of fun doing 02,03,04,05,06,07 next year or how many could be created in reverse 08,07,06,05,04,03, etc.

Better than Sudoku?

Royal Mail delivered a postcard 112 years after it was sent.

Michaela Webber, 24, of Plymouth, Devon, was stunned after Royal Mail delivered a postcard - 112 years after it was sent

To her amazement, it was a postcard delivered to a previous owner of her house in Plymouth, Devon, but it was sent on Christmas Eve 1907.

112 years later, the postcard finally turned up, which was a message from a man called Albert informing 'Vie' that he would not be coming home for Christmas. Mrs Webber said: 'My husband came in with the post as normal and that's when we saw it.

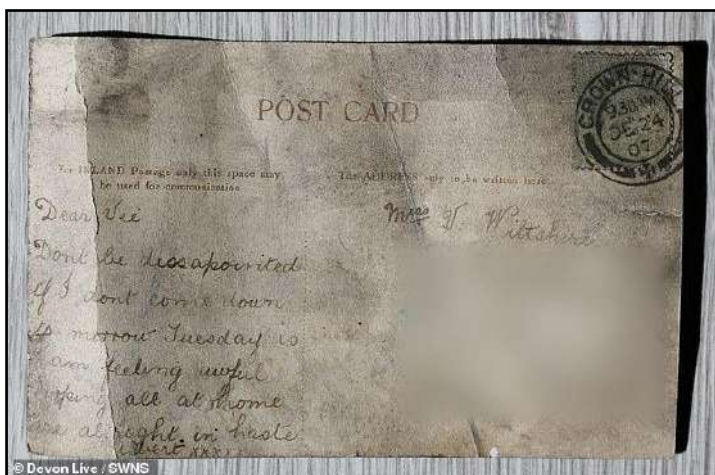

'My initial thought was 'oh my god there's a ghost in the house!' It's unbelievable really.

The front of the postcard shows a picture of the nearby 'Crownhill Barracks', which were built to accommodate regiments in transit for operations overseas in 1891.

They were re-named 'Plummer Barracks' and subsequently used in WW2, before being demolished in the 1960s.

The postcard reads:

'Dear Vie. Don't be disappointed if I don't come down tomorrow, Tuesday, as I am feeling awful. Hoping all at home are alright. Albert xxxxx'

The ancient stamp dated December 24, along with Miss Wiltshire's address.

Mrs Webber quickly looked up the ancestry, and found out that a Miss Wiltshire lived at the house from 1901, before dying in Southampton in 1990.

Mrs Webber has lived at the house since 2014, and admits she doesn't know what to do with the unusual delivery. 'We don't know what to do with it, but I think we'll keep it.'

The Royal Mail said it was unlikely the card had been lost in its system for 112 years. It said: 'It is likely that it was put back into the postal system by someone recently.'

Ed Note: Yes, by a Postcard Collector who wanted to mystify.
